PULL UP EXERCISES

Pull ups on the bar and their various modifications are considered to be one of the best exercises to develop the upper half of the body.

The pull up bar hides a perfect home gym for exercising your body. Different variations of exercises on the bar can perfectly practice different parts of the body without having to go to the fitness centre.

When exercising on pull up bar you work with your own weight and has lower risk of injury. Of course, assuming you practice the right technique. These exercises increase the overall body strength.

Exercising involve a large amount of muscle in the upper half of the body.

Incorrect technique involves biceps and shoulders, thus keeping your back muscles unused.

During the exercise with the wrong technique, there is no development of back muscles due to insufficient load. As a result, exercise becomes ineffective.

Pull ups are the most important technique and require a slow movement. No "swing" or bending.

Pull-ups

- Narrow grip - mainly the central part of the back muscles
- Classical grip on shoulder width - mid and outside muscles are evenly used
- wide grip (recommended) - mainly the outside of the back muscles

Underhand grip

Pull up with underhand grip are designed to develop biceps. Biceps involvement can make the exercise looks easier and therefore, it is more preferred by beginners. If you want to work on the width of your back muscles, you will certainly not achieve this with "simpler" option.

Pull up bar exercises – abdominal

The abdomen can be exercise on the bar. It is a rather challenging exercise, but it is more effective in developing the abdominal muscles.

MAINTENANCE

Regular cleaning keeps the bar in good condition and prolongs its service life. After each workout, wipe the sweat surfaces with a clean, soft, damp cloth.

ENVIRONMENT PROTECTION

After the product lifespan expired or if the possible repairing is uneconomic, dispose it according to the local laws and environmentally friendly in the nearest scrapyard.

By proper disposal you will protect the environment and natural sources. Moreover, you can help protect human health. If you are not sure in correct disposing, ask local authorities to avoid law violation or sanctions.

Don't put the batteries among house waste but hand them in to the recycling place.
